A Short History of Photoshop If you're like me and grew up with a subscription to PlayBoy magazine, then your first inkling of Adobe Photoshop was the famous "Headless Horseman" on the cover. In 1984, its 1989 edition featured a sexy naked photo of Rebecca Romijn, but her head was covered by a cool brown beret. If you never saw the horseman before that, then you might need to look at Photoshop's early history. > My Photoshop Memory > > A little boy's Photoshop memory begins in 1990, when he saw a man kill a horse in a movie, and it struck him that if that image could be edited, then the man could be made even worse than he really is. After all, the evidence of the man's guilty eyes was clear. Could you make the man go blind? The first issue of the well-known _PlayBoy_ magazine, with a bare-chested horseman on the cover, was released in March 1990. By the time the '90s arrived and the magazine featured Photoshop-like effects, the app had entered the popular imagination. A computer pioneer, along with being a software engineer, is also an artist.

Image manipulation is the home-brewed art that is to be expected from a digital artist, even with an image manipulator program. Photoshop is now so popular that the word has

Q: How to order custom post-type by custom field with multi select function

My site has a custom post-type of "sport groups". These sport groups have custom fields with information of teams. The post-types sport groups are set to display in the main category post list, the sports group with the most points will display in the top position.

Points are calculated by an user that registers, register and win a match. My question is, how do I get the Sport Group to display first, and then sort them by points? Below is the code I've been working on, but it doesn't seem to be working: `add_action('pre_get_posts','sport_filter');` `function sport_filter($query) { if ($query->is_category('sport-groups')) { $query->set('meta_key', 'tri_score'); $query->set('orderby','meta_value_nu` m'); $query->set('order', 'DESC'); } return $query; } Any help will be greatly appreciated. A: I suggest creating a custom field for this instead of using the meta_key and meta_value_num. From what I can tell, meta_value_num allows you to sort by number, but I'm not sure if it will work if the meta_key holds an array of values. This is probably going to be easier: $ 05a79cecff
