In the production of cell banks for cultured Chinese hamster ovary (CHO) cells, the presence of cryoprotective additives in culture media was studied. Polyethylene glycol (PEG) was chosen as the cryoprotective additive, because of the ease of use and low cost of the substance. Some of the storage conditions of PEG-containing cell banks for seven passages were determined. The results showed that PEG 4,000 was more effective than PEG 6,000 and PEG 8,000 in protecting the cell membrane. PEG 4,000 in the medium maintained the stability of the CHO cells and had no obvious toxic effect on the cells. The immunohistochemical expression of Bcl-2 protein is associated with advanced tumor stage in colorectal cancer. The Bcl-2 family of proteins regulates apoptosis and their expression is associated with various tumor types. In the present study we investigated the expression of Bcl-2 protein and its association with several clinical parameters in colorectal cancer (CRC). Sixty-seven specimens from CRC patients were analysed for the expression of Bcl-2 protein by immunohistochemistry. Our findings showed that Bcl-2 was expressed in 70.5% of CRC specimens. There was a significant correlation between Bcl-2 and grade of differentiation, lymph node metastasis, distant
