for the 99% The internet has changed photography forever. It’s created a community of photographers and photogs sharing their work and learning from one another. But with a community this big comes an opportunity for racism, sexism, and classism. Luckily, as an artist, it is your responsibility to see where you fit into a system and make sure your work refrains from being a part of it. When it comes to low poly, it is most recently the artists who come from lower socio-economic demographics that tend to put more focus on ensuring the work they create flows straight from them to the viewer. I would urge those people who come from less financial backgrounds to refrain from using the best tool for their art on your single low poly project: a low poly texture plugin. My call to action for all artists is something else: Use three assets. For the past few months I have been working on A Project called, to quote the title, Texture. As a global community, we needed some form of communication to connect with each other. I chose the Discord chat system but informed myself on what this ‘texting’ thing is. It’s something really new. I think it’s awesome, but the problem is, I need to know if you are me, and listening to you the way that a normal person might. Y’all know I can’t keep up with all this. So, I built a live feed using Skype, and a template that displays a screen capture I had set up. If you’re a ‘normal, age-appropriated adult human being,’ you can watch an example of a screen capture here. It’s a fantastic addition, but it doesn’t cover the fact that a project is going on and communication has been made difficult because of the inability of the platform to create a call to action. To be continued. EDIT: Since I am no longer a member of the community and the project is done, I think this is a good time to focus on a call to action around “texture.” I’d like to say I made it to a place where none of us could help each other at a lower level, but this is not the case; it’s the differences in how texture is created in the work. Last week it was lack of finalizing a unity project file (the stats are wobbly, or fading into the background),

Eipix Media is a new company focused on bringing you high quality interactive story experiences. For the past twenty years, the company has been continuously growing and is now developing multiple story franchises. Eipix Media was launched in June 2018, having already developed three games with Danse Macabre, the second one being Crimson Cabaret. This is not your typical short story game. The story develops over twenty chapters and the game offers more than 30 hours of rich gameplay, as well as six unique ending scenarios. During those hours, players will encounter numerous characters, live through a fairytale-like story and be plunged into a wide variety of different plots and gameplay styles. Crimson Cabaret is the sequel to Danse Macabre. It brings back all the basics we loved from its predecessor, while integrating improvements and innovations to make the game even better. This new book has a "comedic atmosphere" and takes place in a "magic & alcohol" environment. The main characters are: Marion, a famous ballet dancer and art student at the Belfort Hall Academy of Dance. Marion is a talented artist, a top dancer and is loved by her peers and her classmates. Calvin, is Marion's best friend and one of her classmates at the Belfort Hall Academy of Dance. Jackal, is the infamous headmistress of the academy. A kind and fair lady, Jackal loves to keep to the rules and regulations. Her rule is that no one will ever question them and no one will ever break them. Eric, is a famous choreographer who travels around the world giving a lot of opportunities to aspiring dancers like Marion. Eric has a reputation of being a bit moody and introverted, however he will do anything to help a fellow artist/friend. Joey, is a ballet dancer who likes to get into trouble and be remembered for his stunts. A sort of a daredevil, he is a fun and strange character to follow. Caroline, is a famous ballerina with very big dreams. She is a character, who knows exactly what she wants and fights for it with her sass. She is a serious ballet dancer, and she is also someone who will put herself last. The story starts with Marion being found dead. Confronted by her classmates, she says that she has left the academy and left everything behind. We'll find out that Marion is not who she claimed to be and the academy is hiding some
