Features Key:

- Give the kids a crash course in the art of hand-eye coordination. Specify both the length of the slide and its horizontal and vertical direction. Stretch, then move, to see how your pinch and stretch differ. After all, we're the ones that pull an arm or leg back for a running start, not the other way around.
- With three or more panniers, the more you truck, the more you get - either in fun or fiRRSeSS (viiiFG! sFnaLs, in weesh).
- ö Your head turns blank when deciding which way to go, and you may not be sure how you'll find the next one. Clearly outlined and numbered controls, as always, make it easier on you and all your kids.
- Deployable wheels mean the kids can come see you run a few times, and you can come see theirs. It's like fishing without water. How does that work?
- A horse that can run backwards. Who knew that? Reach the next pannier and out runs it.
- This one's packed with all the usual features of Krinkle Krusher, and more still.
