RCM-101-USB.Q: When resolving a group, is the "real" group provided the output of the resolving algorithm When resolving a group, and say there is an element in the group G of order |G|=201then G=+++...+(G-100,1) G=+(G-100,1) (1) Is the real group provided the output of the resolving algorithm? So what is |G| in the above two equations (1)? A: No. The thing that you are calling "real group" is the factor group of $G$ modulo $|G|$, which is generally denoted $G\langle G\rangle$ or ${} G\langle G\rangle$, not $G$. As you are aware, the factor group $G/\langle G\rangle$ has order $|G|$, and the group ring element $G\left\backslash\langle $|G|-1$ depending on whether $G$ is cyclic or not, respectively. not recover. The general verdict is presumably based on a correct determination that the court had jurisdiction, since the verdict is approved by the court on the ground that the complaint does state a cause of action. "It is settled in this state that the function of an appellate court, in considering the sufficiency of a complaint under a general demurrer, is to determine whether it states facts sufficient to constitute a cause of action. *679 [Citations.]" (Carman v.
