“Natsuki Subaru and his companions save everyone from the chaos of the execution by heading to the Northern Lands. There, the memory of the Elden Brothers is still alive, but what should they do next? Subaru and his companions continue their journey, but receive a letter... Ezra is missing. ” THE ELDEN RING Ezra, who is a member of the Noble Order, disappears while on a trip. The mysteries of the Northern Lands, the life of the various characters during these troubled times, and the fate of this world are left unanswered. An unknown person leaves a letter, which leaves the world and their path unclear. They continue their travels until a figure appears before them, representing the last of the Elden Brothers, and ask them to meet them at a certain place. To meet the person who wrote the letter, and to find the truth behind the mysteries and terrifying reality, they must head to the Northern Lands, the home of the Elden Brothers.

LESSON 1 1. Collapse of the Empire “2. Stand up For the Middlemen Saying 'Yes' for the people, many nobles aligned themselves with the Empire, whilst the Middlemen, people who were dissatisfied with the ideals of the nobles, aspired to challenge the rule of the nobles.” The Middlemen, made up of people who had little wealth or power, were constantly persecuted by the nobles and by the Empire. Their rage grew and they took revenge by rising up in full force. Though they were executed for being traitors, their deaths had no effect on the Middlemen. The Middlemen with their strength and resolve continued fighting against the Empire. The Empire turned to foreigners to reinforce its forces; however, when they did, the Middlemen indiscriminately attacked them. One day, the Middlemen assaulted the lifeblood of the empire, the capital. The Middlemen penetrated the capital, and the capital collapsed. All of the nobles and officials in the capital were executed, while the Middlemen captured the imperial palace. The surviving nobles of the capital were exiled. The Middlemen, who replaced the nobles as the 'kings' of the city, declared war on the other cities. They formed an empire with the capital as its core, where their intentions were to rule everyone with an iron fist.

It was a time of peace.

{DARK NOVEL} The Gangan Light Dancer Lace and Kunowna The Darkness of an Illusionary Lace The silent dart of a weapon on the shadows of a heart. The light gliding over the laps of this woman with a sparkling-eyed beauty. That's the dream I was given long ago... I am Lace. I am called a Darkness, a delinquent, and a black devil. I am a Poison Fruitsquelda, a dagger-like venom from the underworld. My name and form are nothing but an illusion. The war between those who are innocent and the delinquents of a country that is now in ruins is settled in the world hidden deep in the darkness... At that time, I was a young man traveling through the last battle to find the truth of myself. However, on that day, the young, graceful-haired man left this country while I stayed behind. I was still alone, like a Dark Light. I never thought that a woman wearing an enticing lacesome face would get involved with an illusionary lacesome man. In the minds of the people of that country, the face of the childhood friend of that woman was masked by the veil of an illusionary lacesome man. Since then, they have been searching for the truth of what happened to that young man. And the truth? Why could the curious and simple, charismatic woman never find her childhood friend? I left that place in search of the answer. I learned about the world to find the truth. I learned about the man who defeated a devil, and became a hero and a God who broke a barrier in the world. I learned about the time that the barrier was broken. That time, I used the darkness as my weapon. I entered a world of mysteries and became a Drow Light Hero. Just as the story goes, that man and I became enemies and fought over the pride of a woman. The ultimate objective that I was pursuing when I fought him became my pride. And in the end, he and I broke our rivalry, became friends, and became one. "Zel" {MILD NOVEL} Lace, as Black... {CASE FEEDBACK OF DARK WOLFHIDE GAME: Devoting To 'MY REPERTOIRE OF DEPRAVITY'}

Advertising Read more Krakow (AFP) Workers at Germany's oldest brewery are preparing to strike over working conditions and conditions for the descendants of owners of the legendary Tyskie lager brand. After the murder of the family patriarch and a succession dispute, two-thirds of the 5,000 people at the plant are descendants of the owners of the Tyskie brand, but they are among the lowest paid at the Wilko Wolter brewery in northern Poland. Some of the descendants are said to earn nothing after paying for rent and pensions. "In thirty years we have not received any more than 3,000 euros ($3,300) in total from the company, " said Salome Wolter, a descendant of a former owner of the Tyskie brand. "That is why we have decided to stop working," she told AFP at the company's headquarters in Krakow. A strike call sent to the workers on Friday was approved by the majority of workers on Friday. Work will continue to get supplies in and out of the plant, but the strike will affect the normal working activities, and the deaths of two male workers a week earlier will be mourned, Salome Wolter said. The brewery was founded in 1845, and owned by the Wolter family for over a century. But the plant, which distributes exclusively in Germany, could also be up for sale. However, Wilko Wolter brewery is linked to a retail shop in Berlin that has played a major role in promoting Tyskie's image in the German capital, considered one of Germany's most successful examples of marketing for an alcoholic drink. A joint statement by trade union Germany's Economic Free Union and Germany's 'Food and beverages' Union (DEB) said; "The most important issues faced by the management
