WLS-TV WLS-TV, virtual channel 56 (UHF digital channel 45), is a CBS-affiliated television station licensed to Chicago, Illinois, United States. Owned by Tegna Inc. (which owns 65% of its owned-and-operated stations), it is sister to ABC affiliate WLS-TV (channel 7), NBC affiliate WMAQ-TV (channel 4), independent station WGN-TV (channel 9), and low-powered Fox affiliate WTTW (channel 33, which is simulcast on WLS-TV's second digital subchannel 7.2). The four stations share studios on the Near West Side (near the Chicago River in the West Loop area of the city); WLS-TV's transmitter is located near Sibley. There is no separate website for WLS-TV; instead, it is integrated with that of sister station WLS-AM. The station is also seen in the northern suburbs of Chicago on Comcast Xfinity channel 5, AT&T U-verse channel 14 (in DuPage County) and Mediacom channel 50 (in Will County). History Early years The station first signed on the air on May 15, 1949. This made it one of the first stations to be signed on since the Federal Communications Commission (FCC) closed down NBC's radio network for six months on September 1 of that year. Prior to that, WLS-TV was the only Chicago television station to ever launch during the mid-1950s. It originally occupied the lower half of the UHF channel 56 allocation (complementing the previous allocation of UHF channel 50, channel 2, which was subsequently turned off in June 1952). Upon first being carried, WLS-TV was the only station on UHF channel 56 that had any schedule at all, carrying an independent schedule 6d1f23a050
