Q: How to calculate coefficients of speed/accuracy trade-off curve? Let's say I have: $f(x)=1+ax+bx^2+cx^3$ I have created a table with the minimum and maximum values of x . The table looks like this: I want to find the optimal a,b,c values, that would give me the biggest possible speed/accuracy trade-off. For example, in the third row, there are two solutions: $a=4.5, b=-0.1, c=-1.5$, and $a=2.1, b=-0.2, c=-2.2$. In the fourth row, there are three solutions: $a=2.5, b=-0.5, c=-3.5$, $a=3.8, b=-0.1, c=-4.1$, and $a=2.8, b=-0.2, c=-4.0$. Can I be more precise in finding the optimal solution, and what if the range was much bigger, say from 0 to 1, or from 10 to 30, or 100 to 500? A: If the range is from 0 to 1, I'd consider using a table like this:

x	$f(x)$	$h(x)$
0.00	0.00	0.00
0.01
