Adobe Photoshop CS5 backup4all Plugin Description: This is the extension for an existing database application. If you use database software like MySQL, MySQL/ODBC, MySQL/ODBC/WSDBA, then this is definitely worth considering. Once installed, this can be used to create a backup of your database to another database. You can also use it to restore from a backup. It is also possible to synchronize with a network folder (and then you don't need an additional utility), and to use a network drive for a backup. A bug has been fixed: if you run backup4all with a database extension like the one I mentioned, and you start it with a command that doesn't exist, backup4all automatically updates the database. If a file is added, or a table is changed, then the database gets updated accordingly. You can use Backup4all to synchronize different folders: database, network, FTP, website. Database examples: MySQL, MySQL/ODBC, MySQL/ODBC/WSDBA Installation This extension is automatically available with the Backup4all utility (available in the menu Backup4all -> Database Restore -> Backup). You can also use the standalone utility database_manager to create and manage backups of MySQL databases. It works with MySQL databases (MySQL/ODBC/ODBC/WSDBA) and is free. If you use other applications that access the same database, such as the MySQL workbench, or phpMyAdmin, then you can
