Software Project The Software Project is a large-scale e-learning project for unemployed people in Northern Ireland with a strong focus on numeracy. Innovation Innovation and change are essential for the future of the region. Northern Ireland has an extensive digital divide; while 75% of those in the EU have access to the internet, only 39% of Northern Ireland adults are online. Falling literacy levels also present a challenge: only 61% of adults can read and write. The Software Project focuses on these challenges with a five-year programme which will deliver digital learning to more than 15,000 people in the region through the use of online interactive technology. Expansion The Software Project will be expanded across the five councils which make up Northern Ireland. The aim is to ensure that everyone in Northern Ireland has access to education and training opportunities in the new digital age. Linking with the Skills Development Agency and Skills Funding Agency, this initiative will focus on upskilling of unemployed people and enhancing their job prospects. VAT We have been able to demonstrate the potential of the e-learning sector by setting up an innovative fund-raising body, Saval, through which we are able to obtain charitable status for VAT purposes. This means we can fundraise for ourselves at a competitive cost. Potential The overall aim is to educate around 15,000 unemployed people in Northern Ireland with a 3-year goal of 1 million online users. The financial costs of the project will be recovered through funding from Northern Ireland Executive Departments and the Social Development Department. Project Impact The potential for this project is huge. It will be one of the first large-scale e-learning projects for unemployed people in the UK. We plan to create and make available to Northern Ireland's unemployed community a series of online interactive courses. These courses can be accessed by anyone anywhere in Northern Ireland at any time, free of charge. We have the support of
